Reasons your Elf didn't move

- He's playing a trick on you! Sometimes elves pick the same spot to make sure you were paying attention
- He must have fallen asleep . It's hard work being an Elf!
- It was way too windy last night, and he would have gotten lost if he had tried to fly.
- Silly Elf! He must have forgotten he was there yesterday.
- He must have worked from home and sent an email to Santa.
- I think she's waiting to go to the North Pole until you do something really , really good.
- I bet he is saving his energy to surprise you with something really special tomorrow.
- She may be stuck but don't touch her! She will lose her magic.
- Maybe you didn't go to sleep early enough last night? Let's try getting to sleep earlier tomorrow.
- You must have woken up too early- try going back to bed and see what happens.
- Hmmm... maybe he's up to something sneaky and trying to trick you.
- She felt bad for you and didn't want to tell Santa what happened yesterday.
- He must be exhausted from keeping up with you!
- Maybe the dog or cat kept moving around last night so he couldn't move.
- He stayed up late playing with your toys and didn't have time to think of a new spot.
- It's the _____ of Christmas. It's an Elf holiday so they can rest.
- He's finally found his favorite spot (every Elf has one).
- It was extra busy at the North Pole and he didn't have energy to find a new spot.
- He wasn't feeling well and needed to rest for a bit. Once he feels better he will get back to being mischievous.
