Cut out the pages and fold the stacked paper in half with the cover page on top.

To cover the ink from markers, you can paste the pages together with cardstock.

Put your pages together into a book, then use a binder clip to close it. Cut a piece of cardstock that is the length of your pages and big enough to span their width.

Place a strip of cardstock over the hot glued edge of the sheets (the side not bound with binder clips). Before turning the pages, let them completely dry.
